Tokyo, the capital of Japan, is a metropolitan city with more than 37 million people, over a dozen of metro lines, thousands of cherry trees and an active volcano—Mount Fuji.

When you go to Tokyo, there are some places you should never miss. The first one is the Temples of Asakusa. Shintoism and Buddhism are the two biggest religions in Japan, so there are many temples in the city. Some of the most attractive temples are in the Asakusa area in Tokyo. Sensoji, Asakusa Jinja and Chingodo Shrine are the largest ones in the area. Imperial Palace, with its beautiful gardens, and Meiji Shrine are the other places to visit in Tokyo. And finally, do not miss the cherry blossom. In springtime, white and pink flowers of cherry trees, called sakura in Japanese, bloom and decorate the entire city.

There are also many things to do in Tokyo. When you are there, remember to go to Tokyo Disneyland, Tsukiji Fish Market, Yoyogi Park and the Shinjuku Gyoen National Garden.
