One day, a little girl left all her dolls alone in her room. She told them to be nice children while she was away. When the front gate clicked and the dolls knew they were alone in the house, they all stood up. "Let's all go in search of something to eat!" cried the dolls. "When our owner took me out this morning," said Raggedy Ann, "she carried me to the back of the house, and I smelled something delicious!" The dolls followed Raggedy Ann to the pantry door. They pushed and pulled the door, but it didn't open. Raggedy Ann took the key and unlocked the door. They climbed upon the pantry shelves. While they were eating, they spilled all the food. One of them dropped a jar of raspberry jam and broke it. The dolls were cleaning the jam when they heard the click of the front gate. Then, they ran back to their room as fast as they could. When the little girl saw the mess, she angrily shouted, "Why, Raggedy Ann, are you all sticky? You were in the pantry and all the others, too?" She picked up all the sticky dolls and washed them. Then, she hung them all out on the clothesline to dry. Later in the afternoon, the little girl placed them around the table. She served her dolls lemonade and jelly sandwiches. Then Raggedy Ann said, "We can have all the goodies we wish, but we have to behave ourselves."
